Senior Project

MEMORA

Where Memories Live Forever

Memora is a digital legacy and memory-preservation platform that enables individuals and families to collect, organize, and share meaningful life moments in one secure space. Through photos, videos, stories, voice recordings, and personal milestones, Memora helps users create a lasting digital archive that can be preserved and passed on to future generations. The platform is designed to strengthen family connections, celebrate personal histories, and ensure that important memories and stories are lost.

Memora was presented as part of our senior capstone project at the Misk Exhibition hosted by Dar Al Uloom University, Riyadh. The project underwent a formal jury evaluation, where it was showcased to faculty members, industry professionals and exhibition visitors. The presentation highlighted Memora's vision of preserving personal and family legacies through a digital platform designed for storytelling, memory archiving, and intergenerational connection.
